VOL. XXII — MIDDLEBURY COLLEGE, MIDDLEBURY, VT., OCTOBER 14, 1925 — No. 4

BALLOT ON HOUR FOR SUNDAY CHAPEL OFFERED BY CAMPUS

Would Students Prefer To Have Chapel at Seven O'Clock?

In an effort to find out definitely just what is the sentiment of the Middlebury student body in regard to the hour for Sunday chapel service the CAMPUS is printing a ballot in this issue with which every undergraduate may express his or her sentiments upon the matter.

It has been brought to our attention since the chapel service of last Sunday evening, which was held at seven o'clock instead of the usual hour of five in order to give students more time to return from the Harvard game, that there has been some agitation in the college in favor of changing the hour permanently to seven o'clock. Whether this is the desire of a small minority or of the greater part of the student body, is what this ballot aims to determine.

The CAMPUS believes that there are good arguments on each side of the question. Some may prefer to have chapel at seven in order that they may have the entire afternoon free, thus having more time for week-end excursions. Returning athletic teams which often arrive on the late Sunday afternoon train would not miss chapel under the proposed system. Some may prefer the present five o'clock hour, believing that they can do their best studying in the evening and therefore wishing to have that period of the day uninterrupted. Possibly a serious objection to the seven o'clock hour would be its conflict with the evening services in the downtown churches. There is much to be said both pro and con. This ballot offers an excellent opportunity to settle this matter definitely and immediately as far as the student opinion on the matter goes.

It is hoped that every undergraduate will take advantage of this opportunity to express his desire on this matter. The ballot may be filled in any time before next Tuesday noon. Anyone not wishing to destroy his copy of the paper may express his preference on any other piece of paper but should not forget to affix his name and class.

Communications upon the subject will be welcomed and as far as possible will be printed in next week's issue along with the results of the balloting.

M.I.T. Sets New Precedent; Allows Women to Smoke

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 14.—Massachusetts Institute of Technology this week broke the ice of precedent among New England colleges with the announcement that hereafter girls will be permitted to smoke at all dances and social functions in Walker Memorial Building, where the undergraduate social activities are held.

Even though there are only a few women enrolled at the institute the new ruling will apply to them as well as to women guests of the men students at the dances.

For several months the question of smoking on the part of women had been debated and considerable dissention had resulted. Finally the Institute Committee, which constitutes the student governing council, determined that there was to be no bar against women indulging in the pleasures derived from Lady Nicotine.

CAST CHOSEN FOR SOPHOMORE PLAY "CHARLIE'S AUNT"

Lebowitz '26 Directs Production Which Will Be Staged November 28

Aspiring to be cast for a part in "Charlie's Aunt," the rip-roaring farce by Brandon Thomas, which has been selected as the Sophomore class play, thirty-five members of 1928 tried out before a committee of judges at the Playhouse last Monday afternoon. The production will be under the direction of L. E. Lebowitz, '26, and is scheduled for November 28th.

Mr. Lebowitz is well qualified to handle the play, having been very prominent in dramatic activities during the past three years. He will be remembered as "Mr. Pim" in the commencement play last year—"Mr. Pim Passes By" and "Briquet" in "He Who Gets Slapped". He was also stage manager for "Icebound," the Play Production course play of last year.

After much deliberation on the part of the judges, composed of Prof. F. W. Cady, the director of the Dramatic Club, J. Audrey Clark '26, and the man who is to coach the production, a cast has been selected from the tryouts. It is felt that those who have been chosen fit the various parts physically as well as by their histrionic ability.

Rehearsals are to begin before the end of the week according to the director.

'25—George Jaggard has returned to College and is taking a post graduate course in English.

HEAVY DARTMOUTH TEAM BEATS CUB ELEVEN; SCORE 24-0

Wind, Snow and Mud Cause of Many Middlebury Fumbles

The Freshman eleven was forced to battle both a snow storm and a strong Dartmouth yearling team at Hanover on Saturday and the result was that the yearlings lost in their second game of the season by a 24 to 0 score. It was a weird early season game with the snow which fell throughout the game making the field muddy and slippery and a high wind making passes and kicks almost impossible.

Coach Riegelman's team, although greatly outweighed, showed good offensive strength but seemed weak on the defense. The Dartmouth line was heavy and the coaches had a wealth of reserve material to throw in when it showed signs of weakening. The fast Hanoverian backfield ripped big holes in the Middlebury line, especially in the last half and was able to tally four touchdowns.

The Middlebury offense was handicapped by the fact that the forward passing game was unsuccessful. After three attempts to gain by the overhead route, each of which was taken wide of its mark by the high wind, quarterback McLaughlin decided that it would be necessary to depend entirely on a line rushing game.

At no time during the game did the Panther Cubs really threaten the Dartmouth goal line although on several occasions they had the ball in the opponents territory. Two of the green team's touchdowns came as the result of breaks, several fumbles placing the home team in scoring position. Kicking against the wind was impossible and several of Middlebury's efforts failed to cover more than ten yards.

Dartmouth got off to an early start when towards the end of the first period Black, taking the ball, reversed his field and made a beautiful run through the entire Middlebury secondary defense for a touchdown. For the rest of the half the play was even, neither team being able to score. The half ended 6 to 0.

In the third quarter Dartmouth threw in a number of new men and ran for two touchdowns. Morse picked up a loose ball and ripped off a large run and soon after added another score for the Green. Two other touchdowns followed this one in this quarter and one toward the end of the game.

BLUE PLAYS VERMONT TO A 3-3 TENNIS TIE

Teams Break Even; First Court Match Here In Fall Season

Middlebury played the only match of the season last Thursday afternoon on the home courts, holding Vermont to a tie, each team winning two singles matches and one doubles. This was the first scheduled tennis match played with Vermont in the fall.

Guild starred for Vermont, winning his singles match over Captain Hickcox in straight sets, and later, paired with Hoag, taking the doubles from Wolfskehl and Twichell.

The best work in the singles was done by Wolfskehl, who won his match from Hoag in straight sets. The feature of the afternoon was in the second

CRIPPLED MIDDLEBURY TEAM NO MATCH FOR STRONG CRIMSON ELEVEN; BEATEN 68-0 ON WINDSWEPT STADIUM GRIDIRON

Panther Fights Pluckily But Crimson Offense Is Uncheckable

CAPTAIN POTTER IS BLUE TEAM'S STAR

Cheek, Crosby and Zarakov Make Many Long Runs For Touchdowns

A crippled Middlebury team fought doggedly against a hurricane of wind and of crimson-jerseyed football players in the Harvard Stadium Saturday afternoon but was forced to yield to its much stronger rival by a 68 to 0 score.

Just as it was the week before, against Yale, Middlebury was facing one of the strongest teams that her bigger rival has had in several years, a team that was strong in every department of the game and which hopelessly outclassed but did not outfight the Black Panther. Add to this the weakened condition of the Middlebury team and the fact that Harvard was striving to excel Yale's scoring record of last week and it is apparent why the final score was so one-sided. It was the highest number of points that any Harvard team has scored in a game in 34 years.

It required only two minutes to run off the first five plays of the game and on the sixth Captain Cheek of Harvard went over the line for the first touchdown. Others followed in quick succession. Although it was apparent from the time that the first touchdown was scored that Captain Potter's team had little hope of equalling the record made by the teams of the last four years against Harvard and later it was apparent that the defeat would be by an overwhelming score every wearer of the Blue gave his utmost against the uncheckable Crimson onslaught until the final whistle had blown. Injuries were frequent. Not a single member of the team escaped entirely unscathed. The men who were hurt at Yale the week before were the first to be forced to leave the game. Then one by one the others came out until Captain Potter was the only man in the original lineup who was left in the game.

Potter Stars

Potter played through the entire four periods. He was easily the outstanding star of the game for Middlebury. Although guarded carefully by two or three Harvard men all the time, he

PROF. ANDRE MORIZE PRESENT AS CHATEAU IS FORMALLY OPENED

Well-Known Harvard Professor Is Speaker at Ceremonies

While many Middlebury men and women were in Boston Friday and Saturday for the Harvard game, one of the distinguished members of the Harvard faculty was at Middlebury formally opening the new French Chateau. Professor Andre Morize of Harvard, advisor of the Middlebury French School, was introduced by Miss Ethel Littlefield to the group of students and faculty, which had gathered in the "Grand Salon" of the new French Chateau Friday evening at 8 o'clock. Professor Morize and President Moody lighted the first fire in the fireplace and each in turn spoke of the thing which the fire symbolized. President Moody emphasized the strengthening of international amities, and Professor Morize spoke more of the light and warmth of the fire, which he hoped would be the home fire of the inhabitants of the Chateau. Miss Harriett Miner, '26, President of the French Club spoke a few words of welcome and appreciation in behalf of the Club. The rest of the evening was devoted to a program arranged by the program committee of the French Club.

Piano selection—Miss Harriett Freeborn, '29; solo, Miss Prudence Fish; piano selection, Miss Thelma Taylor, '27; minuet, Ellen Rowley, '27, Edna Graham, '27, Jane Carrick, '28, Henriette Ranty, '29; La Farce du Cuvier, a one-act play, Miss Harriett Freeborn, '29, Miss Henriette Ranty, '29, Mr. Eugene Montandon, '26.

BACK YOUR TEAM

The football team has played and lost two games, both by overwhelming scores. But two games do not make a season. Both the team and the student body should look ahead to the six games that are to come, offering no alibis for those that are passed. No excuses are necessary for the Yale and Harvard games. The team gave all that it had against its rivals but its best was nearly good enough. The matter that concerns us now is not that which is past but what is to come It is upon the six other games on the schedule that our decision as to the team's success or failure for the season will be based. Although not a single one of the six teams that are to be met in the next six weeks is a "setup" still not a single one is unconquerable. It is not beyond the range of possibility that the Black Panther may be undefeated during the remainder of the season. To play such a schedule as the Blue has this year and lose only to such teams as Harvard and Yale would certainly be an accomplishment to be proud of. Every member of the student body should remember that this is possible if the team is given the right kind of support.

Even though the eleven should meet defeat at the hands of its larger out-of-state opponents, the state championship is yet to be looked forward to. Prospects of holding this highly prized laurel for another year are as bright as they have been at any time in five years, with the possible exception of last year, when Middlebury boasted the best small college eleven in New England.

Both Vermont and Norwich have elevens which, although they have met defeat at the hands of larger colleges, promise to show strength against teams of their own size. To defeat either or both of them will be a real accomplishment. The battle for the state championship will at least be an interesting one and the winner will hold a well-deserved honor. That honor is a goal toward which the team can work and which if gained will earn it the right to be called successful.

When the "old-timers", basing their judgment on the scores of the Harvard and Yale games alone, start to bemoan the fact that the team of this year does not equal those of former years just remind them of this: Middlebury has seldom had a team that has won a great majority of its games. It has always fought larger colleges and has gained recognition through the fight and spirit shown against its bigger rivals. These same qualities are in evidence again this year. The team has a very good chance of winning a greater percentage of its games than has the average Middlebury eleven of past years It has an excellent chance of winning the state championship, a feat which was last year accomplished for the first time in four years. It is not fair to compare this year's team with that of last year. No reasonable person could expect it to be as strong when twelve letter men including an entire backfield have been lost. The 1925 eleven has the same qualities which have won fame in the past for Middlebury elevens. It deserves the same unqualified support which the teams of the past have had.

CHAPEL

Before the end of the year it will be necessary to call to the minds of the students the fact that an atmosphere of reverence and quiet should prevail before the entrance of the choir at the chapel service. In the rush of our daily work we are too often prone to make chapel a clearing house for our business, at times to such an extent that the seriousness and the beauty of the short service are lost to some. If only we could realize that the half hour we spend in daily chapel is an opportunity for us to forget our haste and to mingle with each other in the security of peace, chapel would become a source of rest and inspiration.

In many institutions it is customary for the student body to rise when the president of the college enters for the chapel service. This slight mark of respect is one of the things that we are not asked to do. All that is asked of us is that we be reasonably quiet after we have entered the chapel. Everyone realizes that the only time when the whole student body is together is at chapel time, and allowances are made. Communication can not be entirely done away with, nor are we entirely prohibited from conversing with our friends and neighbors. However, communication can be carried on in a way which will not be contrary to all that a church should mean. Chapel is not a beehive to be filled with droning busybodies, but a church of God which symbolizes the strength of character and peace of mind, aims for which we ever strive.

'24—Reginald M. Savage has recently been elected Permanent President of his class to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Edgar T. Austin in June. His address has been changed from Newport, Vermont, to Y. M. C. A., Newark, N. J.

Robert E. Doolittle has been chosen as Class Member of the Alumni Council to replace Savage, who has held that office. Doolittle, who was married in May to Muriel Morey, '24, is in the Claim Department of the Aetna Insurance Company, 100 William Street, New York City.

SIDELINE SNATCHES

About 15,000 half-frozen fans watched the game. The crowd was only half the size of that of last year and was the smallest of any during the five years that the Black Panther has played in the Stadium.

No one kept track of the number of hats that were lost during the game. Time after time the gale whisked a toppiece from its owner's head and whirled it across the gridiron.

Every one of the Harvard backs had the ability to hit the line like a ton of bricks. Even when tackled at the line of scrimmage, their momentum would carry them on for five yards or so.

Just before the game ended "Hank" Potter made the most beautiful tackle of the season when he went down under a punt like a cyclone and nailed the receiver in his tracks. The Harvard man's bones must have shaken for "Hank" hit him squarely with the full force of his 180 pounds behind the tackle.

The Haskell Indians, who lost to Boston College 7 to 6 Monday afternoon, were among those who watched the battle in the Stadium.

Among those present in the Middlebury stands were many who had come down to the game with only a light top coat or slicker, little expecting to find the Boston temperature thirty degrees below that in Vermont the day before. They envied those who had the forethought to bring sheepskins for the wind was bitterly cold.

In the forty-eight minutes of play Saturday, Harvard totaled ten points more against Middlebury than she had done in the four previous games put together. The worst previous beating was in 1922 by a 20 to 0 score.

It was hardly true to say, as some Boston sport writers did say, that the line which Harvard crashed through was practically the same as that which participated in the tie game of two years ago. Four of the seven men who started were members of the lineup which faced the Crimson at the kickoff in 1923. McLaughlin at center had subbed for a few minutes at end two years ago making the fifth who had participated in that famous game. But this year injuries forced Brosowsky and Ehlert out for over half of the game, Mullen played for only three quarters and McLaughlin left in the fourth quarter. Captain Potter was the only one who was in the whole game. During the greater part of the game there were at least four sophomores in the line and although every one of them is a good football man they naturally lack the experience of a veteran line.

Although the crippled Middlebury eleven was hopelessly beaten from start to finish it stayed in and fought every minute of the game. The following quotations from the Boston papers show that Captain Potter's team has the same fighting spirit as those of past years:

On the Middlebury side of the ledger there is but one entry—if one excepts fight and courage, unmeasurable items. The Vermonters made one first down against the crimson, in the fourth quarter, when Harvard failed to solve a criss-cross.—Boston Herald.

Gruggel, fullback; Brosowsky, right tackle, and Ehlert, right guard, made the majority of Middlebury's tackles until they were taken out, all injured. If the Vermonters had had a whole team like them the score would have been considerably smaller.—Boston Herald.

And it must be said that the Middlebury players, despite the fact that they were overpowered, never curled up and law down. They were giving their best on every play, and they made their only first down against Harvard after the Crimson had run up its terrifying total of 68 points.—Boston Post.

"CASEY" JONES '15 WINS AIR TROPHY

Famous Pilot, Active Here Ten Years Ago, Again Wins in Air

Charles (Casey) S. Jones, veteran civilian air pilot, who graduated from Middlebury in 1915 with an A. B. degree won the trophy given by the Aviation Town and Country Club of Detroit last Friday by driving his Curtiss Oriole over the eight laps of the hundred-mile course at Mitchell Field at an average rate of 128.4 miles per hour. His time was 44 minutes, 51 seconds and his nearest competitor, Basil L. Rowe, averaged 119.8 miles per hour.

After graduating from Middlebury he was physical director in Montclair Academy, Montclair, N. J., until June, 1917, when he joined the United States Air Service in which he served as 1st Lieutenant until January, 1919. During this time he served also in the 96th Escadrille Pursuit Group 19 of the French Army from July to November, 1918. He then entered the sales department of the Curtiss Airplane Motor Corporation where he stayed until 1920 when he became manager of the Curtiss Exhibition Co., Garden City, N. Y., which position he still holds.

It will be remembered that "Casey" won two $1000 prizes last October at an airplane meet in Dayton, Ohio.

Mr. Jones, who came to Middlebury from Castleton, Vt., prepared for college at Rutland High school, Rutland, Vt. While at Middlebury he was prominent in varsity athletics, being on both the track and baseball teams. He ran the mile and two-mile and was called the "Iron Man" but he was unable to run his fourth year on account of a weak heart. He was a member of the Chi Psi fraternity and was also elected to the Phi Beta Kappa honorary fraternity.

Women's Tennis Tourney May Be Ended Next Week

Despite the unfavorable weather the women's tennis tournament has in most classes progressed fairly well. The matches are two sets out of three.

In the freshman class Sibley will play Marchiano, and Drake will play Comtois in the second round. All other first round matches are uncompleted.

Florence Lockerby, last year's women's champion, has reached the sophomore finals in the upper half by defeating Potter and Markwell. The lower half is not yet played off.

For the juniors Adams will play Southall in the semi-finals of the upper half; the lower half matches are still uncompleted.

In the senior tourney, Eliabeth Goodale has reached the finals in the lower half by defeating Miner and Frost. Jackson is to play Smith in the semi-finals of the upper half.

If possible the championship matches will be concluded next week.

Bad Weather Delays College Golf Tourney

Bad weather is delaying the golf tourney, but a few matches have been played during the past week. In the senior class Novotny won over Mullen (default), and Farnsworth defeated Knowles. In the only junior match Padula beat Wolfskehl. Among the sophomores: Hindes was defeated by Holmes and Simmons by Collins (defaut). In the freshman class Sorensen won over Owen (default), and Weston defeated Riccio.

Hat Scrap on October 31

The annual freshman-sophomore hat-scrap will be held between the halves of the St. Stephen's football game on October 31, it has been decided by the Student Council.

CEREMONY MARKS THOMAS' INAUGURAL

Former President of Middlebury Installed This Morning as 12th President

(Special to THE CAMPUS)

New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 14.—Impressive ceremonies marked the inauguration of Dr. John Martin Thomas, formerly president of Middlebury College and later of Penn State, as twelfth president of Rutgers University on Neilson campus this morning. Governor George S. Silzer of New Jersey presided at the exercises at which time he presented to Dr. Thomas a copy of the charter of the university, which was founded as Queen's College in 1776, together with the key and seal of the institution. In attendance at the ceremonies were thirty-four college and university presidents together with a host of other men prominent in the educational and public life of the east.

The program included an address by Dr. William H. S. Demarest, president from 1906 to 1924 and one by L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware & Hudson Railroad, who spoke for the trustees. Brief addresses were also given by representatives of the faculty, the alumni body and the undergraduate body following which Dr. Thomas delivered his opening address.

Directly after the installation a luncheon was served in Ballantine Gymnasium with Dr. Thomas presiding. Later in the afternoon a parade was held with representatives of 160 academic and scientific societies in line.

set of this match. Wolfskehl, after winning the first set in six straight games, wast at the small end of 5-0 in the second set with Hoag going strongly. With a quick change of pace Wolfskehl smashed through seven straight games and won the set.

Hindes also starred for the Blue, winning his single match, and with Hickcox, beating Nye and Mower in the doubles.

The brand of playing shown by the Blue, especially considering the lack of practice because of bad weather conditions, gives promise for a successful tennis team in the spring season.

Scores: Singles, Guild, V. beat Hickcox 6-0, 6-4; Hindes, M. beat Baldwin 5-7, 6-3, 6-3; Wolfskehl, M. beat Hoag 6-0, 7-5; Nye, V. beat Twichell 4-6, 7-5, 8-6.

Doubles, Twitchell and Wolfskehl, M. lost to Guild and Hoag, V. 3-6, 6-3, 6-3; Hickcox and Hindes, M. beat Nye and Moyer 8-6, 6-4.

"IMMORTALITY" IS THEME AT VESPERS

"If A Man Die Shall He Live Again" Is President Moody's Text

If a man die shall he live again? With this compelling question taken from the book of Job as his text, President Moody delivered a most interesting and instructive sermon at the vesper service last Sunday evening.

Said President Moody in substance: "The oldest question in the world is the one which is expressed by Job in the fourteenth verse of the fourteenth chapter, 'If a man die shall he live again?'

"The earliest finds of the archeologists in regard to the times of prehistoric man show him burying his dead with an obvious thought as to the future and a belief on his part in their subsequent existence. The same thing is reflected in every nation in the past; in the ornate tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen, in the Psalms of the Jewish faith. The belief of the Romans is indicated in Virgil's Aeneid with the descent of Aeneas into Avernus, and the church's conception of the hereafter is reflected in Dante and Milton.

"But the present day has asked for proof rather than accepted traditions. Biology presents evidence against immortality which is hard to answer. Our conception of the Universe finds small place for a mediaeval heaven in the light of the new measurements of the universe.

"In the sense in which we may know other things, we cannot know that we shall live after death. This we must frankly admit. But this does not interfere with the fact that we believe. It is well for us to differentiate in our own minds between the things which we believe and things we know, and to admit at once the limitations of our knowledge. We do not know that a man lives in the world beyond. Sir Oliver Lodge and Sir Arthur Conan Doyle do not convince us with their experiences with spooks, in what seems to us pseudo science any more than the poets do with sentiment—unless we believe.

"The one indisputable argument for the Christian is simply this, that Jesus Christ believed in life beyond death and having accepted His leadership in other matters we feel satisfied that in this He was also right. Christ's belief in immortality comes nearer to a proof than anything else we can find. And it satisfies those who are satisfied with His leadership.

DELTA TAU SELLS TAGS TO GET FUND FOR BAND UNIFORMS

New Band Scores Another Success at Harvard Rally; Holds Practice Regularly

The second rehearsal of the newly organized college band was held in the Music Building last Wednesday night at which time the members were given less than three quarters of an hour to practice numbers for the Harvard rally at eight o'clock. With only two short periods for practice the men played exceptionally well and the future of a crack Middlebury band seems assured.

Through the generosity and cooperation of Delta Tau, a tag day was held last week for the purpose of raising a uniform fund for the band. It is planned to outfit the band in regulation blue sweaters, white insignia caps and white trousers.

Both Dean Wiley and Director Lechnyr, who has proved himself a most able leader, are working hard for the band's success. It is expected that the instruments which have been ordered will have arrived by today and that intensive practice can be begun at once. The organization will hold its rehearsals every Wednesday evening at seven o'clock sharp.

PANTHER HARRIERS YIELD TO HARVARD

Haggerty, Wearing Crimson, Wins Race; Donald Places Fourth

In a race through the mud and rain of last Friday, Middlebury's Cross-country team was defeated by Harvard 17 to 47 at Cambridge.

E. C. Haggerty, Harvard, first waded over the finish line followed by his team mates R. G. Luttman and Captain Tibbetts respectively.

Donald, following the Crimson leader by only twenty seconds, was the first Middlebury man to finish. The other Black Panther runners who placed were Whiting 9th, Arnold 10th, Dodd 11th, and Captain Kelly 13th.

"Red" Haggerty, the winner, is the holder of the Harvard-Yale one mile championship and is considered to be one of the best distance runners in the East. This is the first year that he has been eligible for cross-country.

Haggerty's time was 30 minutes 10 second, good under the atrocious conditions. The race was held oyer a new five-mile course the runners keeping to the riverbank almost the whole way along the Cambridge shore instead of running some distance from the river as formerly.

Pete Again Predicts

The only reason Pete Prophet, '26, seemed a bit conservative on last Saturday's scores was that he and the Weather Man were not on speaking terms. However, that's all been patched up so he not only has all the inside dope on the teams but also on the weather. According to both Mr. Sol and Mr. Pluvius next Saturday will be an ideal football day Fortified with this information, and standing with his thumbs in the armholes of his vest, he shouted with an air of finality:

Harvard 20; Holy Cross 6.
Yale 26; Penn 7.
Navy 14; Princeton 7.
Dartmouth 21; Maine 0.

VERMONT ACADEMY NEXT FOR FROSH

Same Lineup Will Probably Face Strong Prep Eleven Saturday

The freshman team will again swing into action away from home when it meets the strong Vermont Academy eleven at Saxtons River Saturday afternoon. The prep school lads always put a strong combination on the gridiron and promise to give the yearlings the stiffest sort of a battle. Last year they defeated the 1928 team on Porter Field by the close score of 7 to 0.

Coach Riegelman has been busy this week endeavoring to iron out some of the flaws which were apparent in last Saturday's game at Dartmouth. Emphasis is being laid especially on the defensive work of the line which seemed to be a little weak at times against the bigger Hanover team. At the close of practice yesterday afternoon Reiegelman said that the lineup in the third game would be substantially the same as in the first two games but that if the showing made in practice this week warrants it, one or two changes may be made at the last minute.

M. B. HARDY, '26 ELECTED TO HEAD CANE COMMITTEE

Seniors To Decide Whether The Black Panther Cane, Used Last Year, Shall Be Adopted

Marshall B. Hardy, '26, of Newport, Vt., was elected chairman of the senior cane committee at a special meeting of the class of 1926 held after chapel yesterday morning. Hardy has been a member of the men's Glee Club and the College Choir and has served on the art staff of the "Blue Baboon." He is a member of Phi Pi Epsilon, honorary journalistic fraternity and of Alpha Sigma Phi.

An important question which will come before the cane committee is whether it should follow the precedent set by the class of 1925 in having the head of the Black Panther on the cane or have some cane for this class alone as has always been done in the past. It was the desire of the class of 1925 when the distinctive Black Panther cane was created that all classes in the future should use this same sort of a cane. Whether such a custom is created is dependent largely upon the action taken by the present senior class. The sentiment among the seniors seems to be largely in favor of the Panther head cane.

PANTHER TO OPEN HOME GRID SEASON

Will Play St. Michael's Eleven on Porter Field Saturday

Middlebury's eleven will open the home season Saturday afternoon when it meets the St. Michael's team on Porter Field in what should be a victory for the Black Panther. The Winooski team has not gotten off to a very impressive start despite the fact that it has played comparatively weak teams. In its first game of the season against Union, Middlebury opponents of last year, the upstate team went down to defeat before the terrific onslaught of the Garnet by the very one-sided score of 58 to 0. Union is not considered to be a particularly strong team since last Saturday it suffered defeat at the hands of a future Middlebury opponent, N. Y. U., by the score of 14-3. In their second game the Purple and Gold again met defeat, this time at the hands of Lowell Textile by a 12-6 score. Their game last week with Clarkson was called because of the unfavorable weather conditions.

St. Michael's will bring to Middlebury a team that is in no way handicapped by injuries and in that respect will have an undisputed advantage over the Blue and White. Middlebury will undoubtedly start a team of men the large majority of whom will be sophomores. It is not likely that Gruggel, Brosowsky, Novotny, Chaefer, Mullen or Ehlert will start the game since Coach Klevenow wishes them to be in the best of condition for the N. Y. U. game next week. The Middlebury line will undoubtedly be weakened but since St. Michael's is not reputed to be either fast or heavy, the Black Panther should come through with its first victory of the season. Last year Klevenow and his teammates scored a 20 to 0 victory over St. Michael's in a practice game at the opening of the season.

Blue Takes Overwhelming Defeat From Harvard

made tackle after tackle, more than once checking a long advance by the Fisher-coached men.

Gruggel, who entered the game with an injured shoulder, played the same sort of a fine defensive game that he did against Yale until late in the first quarter he gave his shoulder another bump in an especially hard tackle and had to give way to Keene. Brosowsky and Ehlert also were doing good work but had to leave in the first half when old injuries were bruised again. Ehlert returned to the game a few minutes before it closed. Wiley and Whittemore did good work in their second varsity contest. McNeil, who entered the game when Schaefer received a serious leg injury, did some flashy work and just before the game ended succeeded in making Middlebury's lone first down when he made a six yard gain on a clever criss-cross play. Jones, taking the place of Novotny whose injury prevented him from entering the game, did exceptionall good work at end in his first varsity contest. He played nearly the entire game. Whittemore again showed his ability as a punter, several times getting off long kicks either near or behind his own goal line.

The team that Middlebury faced on Saturday was probably the strongest that Harvard has had in the five years that the two institutions have played on the gridiron. Although it lacked the precision and machine-like team work of the Yale team, it was strong in every department of the game and its backfield abounded in individual stars. Crosby, Cheek and Zarakov did the most outstanding work for the Crimson, their long, flashy runs bringing the spectators to their feet time after time.

Several long runs made by the Harvard backs brought the total yardage gained to over 500, a consderably higher total than that made by Yale. Captain Cheek and his teammates tallied twenty-seven first downs.

The most outstanding play of the game was made by Crosby in the third quarter. Crashing through tackle and following perfect interference which took out every Middlebury backfield man, Crosby sprinted fifty-five yards to plant the ball behind the goal posts. It was one of the four touchdowns which he scored during the game. A little later Zarakov made a thrilling run which took him far around his right end and then back to the center of the field, all of the time behind perfect interference. Although he made a net gain of forty yards before he was brought down, the referee ruled that he had stepped out of bounds during the play and the ball was brought back to a point twenty yards from the starting place.

Late in the fourth period Harvard tried its only aerial attack of the game. A long pass Barbee to Baldwin netted thirty-five yards and put the ball on the twenty-yard line. On the second down Barbee passed to Zarakov who took the leather over for the final touchdown of the game.

Although Harvard did not punt once during the game, she failed to equal Yale's record of not being held for downs. In the second quarter, with score of 28 to 0 against Middlebury the Crimson team pushed the ball down close to the goalposts but the Blue line strengthened and gained possession of the ball when Moseley was stopped only six inches from the goal line on the fourth down. Whittemore punted from behind the goal line and pushed the ball out to the thirty-seven yard line.

On the few occasions that Middlebury had the ball, fumbles were frequent and several times these miscues resulted in loss of the possession of the ball before any offensive could be started. The fumbles were due in the most part to over-anxiousness and the benumbed conditions of the players' fingers.

The weather conditions were anything but ideal for a football game. Although the field had dried off fairly well after an all night rain, the high wind and extreme cold made good football almost impossible. A gale which was estimated to have a velocity of fifty miles an hour at times, blew through the Stadium continuously, playing havoc especially with the Middlebury criss-cross and shortening the distances of many of the punts.

DRAMATIC CLUB TO USHER IN SEASON TOMORROW NIGHT

Two One-Act Plays Will Be Presented To Club Members

With the rise of the curtain tomorrow night at 8 p. m., at the College Playhouse, the 1925-26 season of the Middlebury College Dramatic Club will be ushered in. Starting with two one-act plays under student direction a complete program of dramatic presentations will be given each Thursday night of the college year. This year the club will offer two public productions in the nature of a Sophomore play this semester and a play in which only Freshmen will be cast next spring.

The club has gotten away to a flying start this year by enrolling between three hundred and four hundred members from the student body and a large number from the townspeople. A printed program has been prepared and distributed giving the dates and groups for each production of the year.

The first presentations will be under the direction of Rachael Barnes, '26, and Virginia Aines, '26. Miss Barnes will offer "Lonesome-Like," an English comedy concerning an old lady about to be sent to the work house and how she is saved through the efforts of another character who is the possessor of what the author terms a "mediocre mind." Those who are taking part are Edith Markwell, '28, Helen Bredley, '28, Storrs Lee, '28, and Robert Fuller, '28. Miss Aines is presenting "Petticoat Perfidy," a play dealing with female strategy when jealousy predominates one's character. The cast consists of Dorothy Cate, '28, Eleanor Holden, 28, and Anna Belisle, '28.

All members are urged to attend this first program to make the opening night an auspicious one.
